COMMUNITY TRANSFORMATION

Mission

To unite neighbors and other partners in order to enhance the neighborhood system into functioning, stable and caring relationships

Vision

To develop a secure community where mission minded workers help facilitate a neighborhood culture of caring about the health, housing, education and economic needs of each community

Goals and Objectives

This nationally known inner-city program enlists homeowners who physically move into the newly constructed TPBC community along the Tamarind Avenue Corridor and other designated locations to serve as “Urban Community Coordinators.” These families build bridges among neighbors, local churches and nonprofits in order to build a secure, caring and safe community.

Houses of Hope are located on each street where these designated homeowners are committed to develop a caring community through social, educational, and spiritual outreaches to their neighbor house by house, block by block.
